NWHP 4th Annual Conference Details

Heads Up! It's that time again. We are busy preparing for our conference "Echoes from the Past" coming up on March 17th. I hope you have all set this date aside and are planning to attend. Once again, we are side by side with the Nevada Women's Lobby (NWL) conference "Voices for Solutions" on March 18th which makes this an exciting two day event. If you have not already received your registration information it is on its way, but let me give you a sneak preview. We have left the morning open for all of you traveling from out of town, so registration will begin at 11:00 a.m. We will then open the conference at noon with a luncheon featuring Congresswoman Shelly Berkley as the keynote speaker. As most of you know, Shelly has a long, rich history in the Las Vegas area and is not only a wonderful speaker, but also a strong supporter of our organization. We feel fortunate that she has agreed to be a part of our conference.

The workshops will run all afternoon and include a variety of topics. For example, we will have a panel of women attorneys, chaired by Stacie Brown, who will trace the history of women in the law profession here in Nevada. They will discuss the many issues faced by the undaunted pioneers who dared to enter the male-dominated field of law. The Women's Auxiliary of St. Rose Dominican Hospital will share the story of "The Making of Angel Bread." In the 1950's, Al Freeman, an executive at the Sands Hotel became gravely ill and was hospitalized in the then St. Rose De Lima Hospital. He credited his survival on the bread fed to him by a Sister Angelita. What happened next is the text of the story which is fascinating, touching, and another unique slice of our history (if you'll pardon the pun). Each of the day's workshops will be enlightening, educational and not to be missed. Two sessions will run simultaneously and I know you will all have a difficult time making a choice. The only repeat will be the video of the oral interviews done with the last seven First Ladies of the State of Nevada. Just completed in October, this video is a unique look into the lives of the women who lived in the Governor's Mansion and the incredible impact they had on our State. It will be presented once during the day and again at about 8:00 p.m., along with commentary and time for questions, for those attendees needing hours to complete a continuing education credit or those unable to attend the earlier session.

At 6:30 p.m., we will all move to the top of the Riviera for a reception with hors d'oeuvres and no host cocktails. The view is spectacular. This is a wonderful time to catch up on the day's events, mingle with old friends and make new ones. The stars of the evening will be the many Chautauqua presenters walking among you - some relaying tales of their lives and experiences in the rugged frontier Nevada of long ago and some telling stories from the not too distant past when Las Vegas experienced its first population explosion. What better way to become acquainted with your state's history than to talk to the people who lived it. The reception is also available, for a nominal fee, to those of you unable to attend the workshops during the day. Check your flyer for details.

After you receive your registration form, or if you don't receive it, and you have other questions or need additional information, please call Joyce Marshall - (702) 648-7042 or Rose Irwin - (702) 457-4577. Whether you are able to stay for the two days, one day, or only the reception, we are looking forward to seeing all of you.

NWHP Has A New Home

The Nevada Women's Fund and the Nevada Women's History Project recently moved to new offices. The new address is 770 Smithridge Drive, Suite #300, Reno, NV 89502. Our telephone remains the same, (775) 786-2335. The post office box will be kept for a few more months, but mail can be sent directly to our new street address and will arrive in a more timely fashion. We are urging all of our members to begin using this new address for mail as we anticipate staying in these quarters for several years.

The offices are lovely and brand new. Our landlord, RPL Realty, allowed us to store everything in a space next to the new offices while they were being constructed. Our office space is about the size of our other office, however, there is a very large workroom just behind our room where we have space to store items and place our file cabinets. The Nevada Women's Fund had the large lateral file cabinets repainted (two of which we use), so everything looks new and shiny. There is a conference room, a private bathroom, and a kitchenette with a dishwasher.

Please take the opportunity to stop by to see our new home! We thank the Nevada Women's Fund for making it possible for us to have such nice offices.

Researchers and Writers Wanted

The first-ever biographical encyclopedia for the state of Nevada is a project that needs help not only from members of the NWHP but anyone in the community who is willing to research and write about our historical women of Nevada. The materials used will list the researcher and the writer.

The first edition will include only the deceased historical women of the southern region with a second edition to follow with deceased historical women of the northern region. Additional volumes will follow as time permits.

If you can assist us in any way please call the following people:
Rose Irwin at (702) 457-4577 or email toots1110@aol.com, Mitsi Johnson at (702) 456-3218 or (702) 385-3677 or email mcj3825@aol.com.
News from the North

Can it already be year 2000? With all the speculations and anticipations of what Y2K would bring, it was quite a let down when all went well. I am sure we are all pleased that there were few problems.

The move from our quarters meant we were in limbo for a month without offices, but we managed quite well. Various members took home records, supplies for mailing the newsletter, or whatever a member felt she needed to continue her work. We were all delighted to learn that our offices were ready to move into a month earlier than had been expected.

In November, many of our members enjoyed the reception at the Nevada State Library and Archives Building which kicked off the opening of the new exhibit, "Silver Ladies in Golden Splendor: Nevada’s First Ladies Ball Gown Exhibit." The evening was beautifully orchestrated by our member, Jan Loverin. Several of our state officers came for the evening, which enabled us to have a state meeting after the reception.

March promises to be very busy as we celebrate Women’s History Month. Please see the calendar for many of the events. I am scheduled to present Helen J. Stewart for the Bureau of Land Management and to wear my costume in a fashion show highlighting historic clothing in Fallon. The event, scheduled Saturday, March 11, 2000, will be a fund-raiser benefitting the Churchill County Museum. This promises to be a fun event and will be narrated by Jan Loverin. Details will be available in early February. Of course, many of us from the north are looking forward to joining our southern members at the conference in Las Vegas.

We are very fortunate to have two of our members accept positions on our North Steering Committee. Dana Bennett is now our new Program Chair and is planning some exciting events to bring our members together. Mary Anne Convis joins Lisa-Marie Lightfoot as co-chair of the Project Review Committee. Dana and Mary Anne, have been active in NWHP for several years and we are delighted to be able to work with them again.

Now that the book assessment is finally finished - with much gratitude to the dedication and hard work of Betty Glass and Martha Gould and the fine support from Jean Stoess - we are looking at doing some brainstorming. We are inviting all members to join the north steering committee Saturday, March 4, 2000, for a potluck lunch at Kathy Noneman’s home. Call me for details, (775) 857-2050.

Southern Region News

NWHP, Southern Region, welcomed the New Year with challenging goals for the year 2000. With help of its members, it should prove to be another successful year with workshops, speakers and time to enjoy the friendships of new and old.

On February 5th the southern region celebrated "Black History" month at the Desert Pines Country Club with a fascinating program on the famous and historical Moulin Rouge presented by Mary Gafford and Frankie Williams. Members and guests were invited to attend the brunch program.

The month of March will be filled with exciting and educational events. "Wednesday’s Woman," the Library District is hosting, along with the support of the NWHP, women speakers of cultural backgrounds; the Women’s Conference at the Riviera Hotel on the 17th and 18th of March. We do hope that our members will participate in the conference that will be filled with workshops, speakers and social time. The Museum, Library and Arts will be hosting two events. The NWHP has been asked to co-sponsor their exciting plans for the inaugural gowns being on display here in Las Vegas.

At the present time we are most anxious to produce and market the video that was completed on the first ladies of Nevada. We will have the video available for sale at the conference and anyone interested in purchasing may call Rose Irwin at (702) 457-4577. The cost will be $20.00.

The southern region is preparing a slate of officers for the new administration and we wish to thank Jean Spiller, Karla McComb and Joyce Marshall, our outgoing State Chair, for undertaking this task. We wish them the best in their seeking and endorsing those candidates. If anyone wishes to volunteer for an elected or appointed position please contact Joyce Marshall at 648-7042. The slate of officers will be published in a regional newsletter sixty (60) days prior to the annual business meeting on May 27th.

As each month passes we are ever so grateful to have our members involved in whatever tasks are required and to have the support of our executive committee members who have taken on the challenges of an organization so vital to our community. This president will never be able to thank each for their constant support in the growth, goals and purposes of this organization. The purpose is collecting materials about our historical Nevada women, to educate, and to preserve those materials for future use.

We wish you health, success and happiness in the year 2000.

Annotated Bibliography Goes to Press

The years of hard work and dedication to the cause by volunteers in the Nevada Women’s History Project has paid off. Their publication “Women in Nevada History: An Annotated Bibliography of Published Sources” has gone to press. Editor Betty Glass submitted the final draft to the Northern Nevada Steering Committee at their January meeting in Reno. Copies of the Bibliography will be distributed to UNR and UNLV, Nevada community colleges, public high schools, junior high schools, and public libraries.

Four hundred and twenty-six books and publications dating from 1881 to 1998 are included in the Bibliography. Five indexes covering names, topics, Nevada women’s organizations, race and ethnic identity of Nevada women, and genre will aid researchers. The publication is dedicated to Jean Ford, founder of Nevada Women’s History Project. She, Betty Glass, and Martha Gould are named as editors. Jean Stoesch did the computer inputting of all the entries as well as the final manuscript compilation.

Achieving a “first” of its kind in content for use by Nevada researchers and students, the NWHP can be proud of this accomplishment. The four purposes of the annotated bibliography project are to identify published books which include information on women’s roles and experiences in any and all periods of Nevada history; to produce an annotated bibliography for use in classrooms and other formal and informal learning programs; to make the information available in various formats, from hard copy to on-line Internet access; and to encourage additional research and writing on women’s history and related topics in Nevada and the surrounding region.

After identifying over 300 books in 1996, the project committee invited volunteer reviewers from all parts of the state to read, glean information, and lastly to turn in their comments on “purple sheets” created for this purpose. Even though many of the titles are out of print they are available in public, school, and academic libraries throughout Nevada. After Jean learned that she had pancreatic cancer in 1997 she redoubled her efforts to finish this project and worked on it steadily until her death in August 1998. Copies of the Annotated Bibliography will be distributed this spring.

Spring Workshop Series

The Nevada Women’s History Project, The Nevada State Library and Archives and the SNCAT (Sierra Nevada Community Access TV) Community Access Archives will offer archives classes to the public at SNCAT’s Reno Media Center in February, March and April, 2000.

Jeff M. Kintop, state archives manager will offer three classes, “Preserving Your Past - Papers, Photos and Family Heirlooms,” on February 14, March 4 and April 24, 2000, and “Disaster Planning for Records of All Kinds” on February 28, March 18 and April 10, 2000.

Carrie Townley Porter, State Coordinator of the NWHP, will offer three workshops on “How to Organize the Records of Your Small Club or Business” on February 9, March 25, and April 4, 2000.

The cost for each workshop is $40. For more information, contact SNCAT at 775-828-1211 or the NWHP office at 775-786-3225.

Message from Dana Bennett

Please let Dana know what type of programs members in Northern Nevada would like to have offered in the Reno/Sparks area. She is our new Program Chair and is in the process of arranging for workshops, lectures, and presentations to be offered this year. We are also interested in working with other historic groups on program planning. Give Dana a call at (775)849-9224 or by email: RBDRB@netscape.net.

So. Nevada NWHP Membership Report

As of January 5, 2000, Nevada Women’s History Project Southern Region has 123 members. This is an increase of 42 members since January 1999. Once again I want to thank all of you for your help in soliciting new memberships. I am looking forward with anticipation to the year 2000 and the growth of our organization here in Southern Nevada and in other regions of the state of Nevada.

Membership Chairman Southern Region

The Las Vegas-Clark County Library District hosts this second annual celebration of National Women’s History Month through the Wednesday’s Woman Lecture Series. This series focuses on women of diversity and achievement. Speakers take the podium every Wednesday throughout the month of March to offer their life’s experience and thoughts on the roles of women. A question and answer period follow each lecture where the audience is invited to interact and discuss relevant issues with these renowned women of diversity! Each Wednesday is concluded with a reception in honor of these great women. Stay and greet our honored guests as they discover the variety of women Las Vegas is proud of!

All lectures begin at 7:00 p.m. All lectures will be broadcast on County Cable Ch. 4

Ellsworth, Charlotte Rowberry (January 8, 1912 - July 11, 1998), Room Reservation Manager and executive at the Flamingo Hotel, Frontier Hotel, MGM Grand Hotel and Bally’s Grand Hotel from 1948 to 1988. Born in Cardston, Alberta, Canada, Wealtha Charlotte Rowberry was the daughter of Thomas Clark Rowberry and Jane Ann Hartley Rowberry. This couple was among the first group of Mormon farmers to settle that region of Canada. Thomas Rowberry was the town administrator. Jane Ann Rowberry helped the large Hartley family farm their sizable land holdings, break horses, taught piano lessons and entertained in her Cardston home.

When Charlotte was two years old her father died. Her mother was devastated by this loss. Unable to keep her portion of the family enterprise, she left Canada and struggled for the remaining years of her life to support and keep her three children, Hyram, John and Charlotte, together. Survival became the family business and Charlotte began working at the age of eight. When Jane cooked for road gangs and Salt Lake City fraternity houses, the three children assisted her in the cooking, then washed dishes for as many as thirty men three times a day. Her brothers took on any job they could get and Charlotte was working in her school offices as soon as she was in high school.

Charlotte’s mother was determined that Charlotte would attend the private L.D.S. High School and learn secretarial skills. There the strawberry blond, brown-eyed beauty came to know children of the leaders of that city. As secretary to President Feramorz Young Fox, she mastered graciousness, tact, and the qualities of a true professional. So rigorous was his tutelage that she maintained no work was ever so hard again.

A quick student, Charlotte graduated from high school at the age of seventeen. Her mother died of cancer six weeks before the graduation ceremony. She had lived long enough to ensure each of her children a living. In Charlotte’s case, her office skills carried her well through the Great Depression. As the years passed she worked in the Salt Lake area and then spent a year in Washington, D.C. While there, she renewed her acquaintance with Elmo H. Ellsworth. He had determined to marry her when they were both students at L.D.S. High School. Now he had completed a mission, was working for the government and, at twenty-four years of age, finally convinced her to marry him. He transferred to San Francisco, California, and they were married there on October 16, 1936. Their daughter Jane was born in 1938.

When World War II broke out, Elmo moved the family inland. He found work in Clark County at the newly constructed Basic Magnesium Plant. He arrived on January 1, 1942. As there was no housing, he lived in the tent city. Charlotte and Janie joined him in April. They found a room at the Walipai Lodge and stayed there until the Henderson homes were available. Their second daughter, Rosemary Lee was born shortly after that move. The infant was very ill and died at ten months of age.

Heart-broken and exhausted by their child’s long illness and death, the couple moved into the newly built Huntridge homes in Las Vegas. Elmo’s friend, Jack Walsh, suggested she work for him at the El Rancho Hotel. There she was given a “flunkey’s job” helping out in any and all the departments of the hotel. This would prove to be a wonderful opportunity. She learned the needs and demands of the entire hotel operation and soon became secretary to the president. When Sanford Adler took over the casino, she was made head of the room reservation department. The demands and details of the work were extraordinary and, according to Charlotte, one reservation manager was hauled to jail for overselling the hotel. She left the El Rancho to stay home and enjoy her new baby boy, John Elmo, who was born on May 18, 1947.

Charlotte had to be hospitalized for six months after John Elmo’s birth. When she recuperated the family finances were stretched to the breaking point. Again, Jack Walsh called and continued on page 8 wanted her at the new Flamingo Hotel. In November of 1948 she agreed to go to the Flamingo Hotel to manage the room reservations department.

Her career at the Flamingo Hotel lasted for nineteen years. She moved on to the Frontier Hotel in 1967 where she remained for ten years. Elmo had died in December of 1971 and so her work became her refuge. At the age of sixty-five she was persuaded to join her associates for the opening of the MGM Grand Hotel in Reno, Nevada. She remained at the Grand until her retirement at the age of seventy-six. She had been a room reservation manager for forty years.

Charlotte had certain qualities that made her invaluable to hotel owners. She was willing to work twelve and fourteen-hour days, seven days a week, as did many of the owners themselves. She recognized the needs of the entire operation and gave balanced opinions that were always pointed to the success of the enterprise. She was loyal to her bosses and they were very protective of her. She fought for the good of the business, the guests and her staff.

Stories of her brilliance and graciousness abound. Once she went to one of her bosses to ask for raises for her staff. She was told that she could have the raise for herself or her staff, not both. Charlotte took the raise for “her girls.” As the decades passed, Charlotte trained hundreds of men and women in the hotel business. Her standards were high. She believed in her people and they strove to match her expectations. Many insisted she was the best boss and ran the most enjoyable office they had ever worked in.

Charlotte had a photographic memory and could remember the guests’ names, their casino credit rating and details about the lives of their parents and children. Because of her graciousness and interest, guests loved her and hundreds became her personal friends. Christmases were often overwhelming with gifts from all over the world. One year she received more than three hundred gifts for the holiday. These gifts were always shared with her staff.

Charlotte Ellsworth returned to Las Vegas in late May of 1998. There she passed away on July 11, 1998. Former guests and staff workers had remained steadfast friends throughout the years. All remembered her as totally professional, gracious and generous. They referred to her as “The Great Lady.”

Women’s History Remembering Project

To celebrate women’s history week, the Carson Valley Historical Society will conduct a ceremony

Sunday, March 5, 2000 - 1:00 p.m.

to honor Carson Valley women who have been nominated for the Women’s History Remembering Project. The ceremony will follow the opening of the women’s history exhibit, “Nevada Women on the Road to Change, 1890-1920.” The reception will be held at the Carson Valley Historical Museum and Cultural Center, 1477 Hwy 395, Gardnerville, from 2:00 - 4:00 p.m.

The Carson Valley Historical Society is conducting a survey soliciting nominations for the Nevada Women’s History Project. The information collected during this survey will be archived in the Carson Valley Historical Society library and shared with the Nevada Women’s History Project. The NWHP is dedicated to archiving information, photos, and artifacts about the roles and contributions of Nevada women. This information will be used for educational research and for exhibits in museums and galleries.

NOMINATE A WOMAN YOU WANT REMEMBERED.

There are articles in the newspapers and stories on TV about extraordinary women, but there are thousands of ordinary women who contribute their special talents and effect the lives of others. How long will they be remembered unless this information is recorded for future generations? Send any information you would like included, but be sure to answer as many of the following questions as possible.

1. What is the name of the woman you have honored? (All her names, maiden, married and possibly married again.)
2. When and where was she born?
3. If deceased, when and where?
4. If she was not born in Carson Valley, when and why did she move to Carson Valley?
5. What other dates in her life are significant?
6. Why you are honoring her?
7. What are the major accomplishments of her life?
8. You must include your name, address and phone number in order for us to verify the information.

Mall Nomination before February 15, 2000 to:
The Women’s History Remembering Project

Hazel Hohn’s manuscript on Nevada Women Military Pilots of World War II is a tribute to over 60 magnificent women who in their flying machines slipped the surly bonds of earth in the skies over Nevada as flyers with the Women’s Auxiliary Ferrying Squadron (WAFS) or Women Airforce Service Pilots (WASP).

During World War II, “over 25,000 applied for the limited openings in the WASP program, 1,830 were selected, and 1,074 women completed the program before the Army Air Force abruptly cancelled it. Many were seasoned pilots and eligible except for one criterion; they were not male. These women flew 60 million miles, ferried 12,650 aircraft, towed countless gunnery targets, and instructed hundreds of Air Force pilots. They flew as regularly and as long as male pilots in the same jobs and showed no difference in physical, mental, or psychological capabilities. Although 38 lost their lives (one near Las Vegas), the record shows that the women’s accident rate was about the same as the men’s.”

The manuscript written by Hazel Hohn, herself a WASP and Nevadan since 1960, outlines the personal histories of over 30 pilots who flew in Nevada. Some of the women were natives of Nevada, others came to Nevada to fly when bases along the coasts were closed, and some only flew while on assignment at Las Vegas Army Air Field, where “at the height of World War II, 600 gunnery students and 215 co-pilots graduated from LVAFF every five weeks.”

“After their graduation from Avenger (Field in Sweetwater, Texas), Ruth Craig Jones and Skip Carter reported to Las Vegas AAF along with Marie Mountain, Marge Harper, and several other 44-W-1 classmates. The base greeted the WASP with a parade, and gave them billets in the nurses’ barracks. Within 6 months, 36 women would be on duty at Las Vegas, making this the largest WASP contingent in the Training Command.”

“Flying training missions in the fierce skies over the desert at Las Vegas was brutal work most of the year, and the pilots swallowed handfuls of salt tablets to stave off dehydration. After several hours of target towing, Marge Harper was stunned to find rings of salt encrusting her body when she unzipped her flight suit.”

Many of the WASP learned to fly in Minden, Nevada, trained by Victor Spazia. One of these women was Lois Brooks Halley, a graduate of Reno High School and the University of Nevada, who first soloed in a Taylorcraft airplane at Vista Airport, which was in a pasture field in the Sparks, Nevada, area in 1939. After serving as a WASP and in various flight capacities, Lois was inducted into the El Paso Aviation Hall of Fame in 1985.

By coincidence, Hazel Hohn was classmate with Doris Klein Ohm and Jean McCart in WASP class 44-W-4. Both Doris and Jean had come to Nevada from California to fly when coastal bases were closed. Each received their private flight training in Minden in April and May of 1943, respectively, before entering WASP flight training in November 1943 at Avenger Field.

Utilizing letters, personal interviews, and book excerpts, Ms. Hohn’s collection of personal histories of these courageous women is a fascinating read. I hope the above entices each NWHP member to learn in greater detail the outstanding contributions to the defense of our great nation and to the field of aviation made by women.

Ms. Hohn’s manuscript is available at the Jean Ford Research Center and UNR Special Collections in Reno. Other recommend readings:

In our first NWHP News issue, dated January 1996, page one featured a column listing individuals and the research they were pursuing on Nevada women’s history. The goal of this Research Registry was to encourage the sharing of information, sources, and work collaboration, as well as new publications for wide audiences, from schoolchildren to adults. This goal continues to be one of the linchpins of our organization. To reaffirm and continue this outreach, your editor has decided to print the names and research interests of everyone included in our Research Registry to date. This information hopefully will rekindle research efforts and encourage sharing and cooperation. The spin-off could be new presentations, publications, docudramas, and development of educational materials emphasizing the role that women have played in the history of our state.

Anyone willing to be included on this list, please contact the editor, Kay Sanders, at NWHP, 770 Smidridge Dr., Suite 300, Reno, NV 89502-0708. Email messages can be sent to Kay at ksanders@scs.unr.edu or FAX at (775) 747-1642. Please give your name, address, and area of interest. We plan to gather more information from our researchers in the future regarding the progress they have made and whether or not they would be willing to share their work in the NWHP News, a presentation, or other means.
In Appreciation:
• For help with the move of our office: Billie Brinkman, Chuck and Mary Anne Convis, Bruce and Lisa-Marie Lightfoot, Susan Roberts and Keith Porter.
• Thanks also to those of you who offered help on other days, but were not needed.

Donations:
• Thanks to the following who made donations recently to NWHP, either in kind or monetary: Lynn Bremer, Fritsi Ericson, Maya Miller, Peggy Twedt.
• Thanks to Margaret Kadayama from Fairfax California, who sent a donation to NWHP honoring her mother, member Mary Anne Convis. Isn’t this a good idea to honor your own family members for Mother’s Day?

Congratulations:
Member Sue Kendall, of the State Library, was named Librarian of the Year by the Nevada Library Association for 1999.

Episcopal/NWHP Joint Luncheon Held

Nevada Women’s History Project members joined the St. Paul’s Episcopal Church, women’s group in Sparks for lunch on November 4th and a revealing talk. The Reverend Britt Olson, the first female rector of the Episcopal Church in Nevada spoke on women in the clergy.

The energetic Reverend Olson gave her personal account of breaking the “stained glass ceiling” in her rise in the Episcopal Church. She also presented a brief history of the Episcopal Church in Nevada and had several long-time church members tell their Nevada stories. NWHP Chair, Northern Region, Carrie Porter attended the meeting as Helen Stewart, first woman of Las Vegas who was also Episcopalian. Everyone was charmed.

FYI: Reverend Olson recently lead the prayer and sat next to visiting dignitary, former Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher during her visit to Reno.

NWHP looks forward to attending more events of interest to our members. If your organization has an upcoming event, call and let us know so we can share the information with our members.
